Continuation of 3. NOTE: Applicant has added the new feature "more than 5 minutes" to claims 1, 27, 29 and 32. This new limitation requires further search and also additional evaluation.

Response to Arguments

On page 6 of the Remarks section, Applicant argues that more than 5 minutes was previously implied in the claims through the limitation "continual", that pages 13-14 of the specification teaches continual processes that operate for more than 5 minutes. The examiner disagrees for the following reasons. First, a continual process does not mean that it continually functions for more than 5 minutes. Second, the disclosure does not positively recite this newly added feature and one of ordinary skill in the art reading the specification will not be able to recognize that Applicant's process is necessarily functioning more than 5 minutes.

On page 6 of the Remarks section, Applicant argues that the added limitation does not require new search since it was previously implied by the term "continual". The examiner disagrees. "Continual" and "more than 5 minutes" are different limitations that require additional search.
